1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the existence of solutions of the system of equations

$$\begin{aligned} & \Delta u = f(x, y, z, u, v, w) \\ & \Delta v = g(x, y, z, u, v, w) \\ & \Delta w = h(x, y, z, u, v, w) \end{aligned}$$ where x, y, z are the coordinates of a point in a domain D of the three-dimensional space, and u, v, w are the unknown functions. The functions f, g, h are assumed to be continuous and to satisfy certain conditions.

2. In the second part of the paper, the author considers the case when the domain D is a ball of radius R centered at the origin.

3. In the third part of the paper, the author considers the case when the domain D is a rectangular parallelepiped.

4. In the fourth part of the paper, the author considers the case when the domain D is a sphere.

- d. by constructing the substructure of the footway by the Corporation and the superstructure by the owner of the premises abutting on either side of the street, the substructure to be constructed to the upper surface of the substructure of the footway or not to the full width of such carriageway.

3. The Mayor shall by notice inform the owners of premises abutting on each side of a street in which the Council may then proceed with the construction of the carriageway of such street.

4. If the cost of reconstruction of the carriageway of any public street is not covered by the provisions of these by-laws shall be

- a. as to fifty per centum thereof by the owners of the premises abutting on each side of such part of such street as is subject to reconstruction;
- b. as to fifty per centum thereof by the Corporation.

5. The fifty per centum of the cost of reconstruction of carriageway to be borne by the owners of the premises abutting on either side of such part of such street as is subject to reconstruction shall be apportioned between such owners in proportion to the frontage of the premises of each such owner and each apportioned amount shall be paid by the Corporation from the respective owner.

6. Where prior to the commencement of the works of reconstruction of a street the construction of the carriageway of such street has not at the date of the commencement of the works been commenced by the Corporation, and the works so commenced do not include the superstructure, or both the superstructure and substructure, it shall be compotent for the Council after declaring such street to be a public street under these by-laws to complete at any one time, or in stages, the construction of such carriage-way, whether by completing it to its entire width or by constructing the upper surface or both the superstructure and substructure, as the case may be.

2. Where the construction of any carriage-way has been commenced under sub-law (1) of this by-law, it shall be competent for the Corporation to recover the cost of the construction of such carriage-way if the same is not completed under these by-laws as well as of those works which have been commenced prior to the coming into force of this by-law in accordance with the provisions of sub-law (2) of by-law 6.

3. If the Council decide to carry out the construction of a carriage-way in stages as aforesaid it shall be competent for the Corporation if they deem fit, to recover, in accordance with the provisions of sub-law (2) of by-law 6 the cost of any such stage, fifty per centum of the cost of such stage, if such stage is completed, and fifty per centum of the cost of such stage, if such stage is not completed.

4. Upon the completion of all such stages, fifty per centum of the cost of such construction.

5. Notwithstanding anything contained in these by-laws, it shall be competent for the Council to construct any public street or to alter the carriage-way of such street.

Provided that no person other than the Corporation or any person authorized by the Corporation or the authority of a local authority or the authority of a written permission issued by the Council and of such number and of such specification as may be prescribed by the Corporation and with the approval of the Council.

6. No person shall obstruct a footway save in accordance with the terms of a written permission issued by the Mayor, or in compliance with a notice given therefor by the Corporation.

7. The Mayor may, by notice, require the owner of any premises to cause one or more persons to be employed, within a period of six months, in the case of such premises to be known as a public house, to be used as a public house.

8. Any person who fails to comply with such requirement shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five pounds, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months, or to both such fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the Court.

9. 1. Where the owner of any premises fails to comply with a notice given by the Mayor under sub-law (7) the Council may carry out the construction of the footway.

It is necessary to find a general expression for the value of the function χ at each one of the powers on the left-hand side of the equation (1.1). Let us assume that the function χ is continuous in the interval $(0, \infty)$. Then it is not difficult to find that $\chi(0) = M$ and $\chi(\infty) = 0$ (see [1]).

The text of an Agreement signed at Neuchâtel on 23d September 1947 for the preservation of industrial and other property rights affected by the Second World War is published below for information. A request has been made to the Government of Palestine by Her Majesty's Government, but no decision has yet been given. Article 10 of the text of the Agreement is therefore and is further noted will be published when it has been decided that no notification has been given.

AGREEMENT FOR THE PRESERVATION OF RESTORATION OF RIGHTS OF INDUSTRIAL PROPERTY APPLICABLE BY THE SECOND WORLD WAR

The undersigned plenipotentiaries of the Governments of the countries mentioned in the Preamble and Annex for the Protection of Industrial Property, being holders of powers or powers for the purpose to the rights of industrial property arising from the Second World War, after having communicated their respective full powers found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following provisions:

ARTICLE 1

A period of priority provided by Article 1 of the Convention of the Union of Paris for the protection of industrial property for the deposit or registration of applications for patents for inventions for utility models for trade marks and for designs for signs and models which had not expired on the 31st September 1947 and those which have arisen since that date but before the 1st January 1947, shall be extended by each of the contracting countries in favour of the proprietors of such rights recognised by the said Convention or their legal representatives or assignees until the 31st December, 1947.

ARTICLE 2

A period expiring on the 30th June, 1948, shall be granted without any preliminary fee or penalty of any kind to the proprietors of rights recognised by the said Convention, or their legal representatives or assignees, to accomplish any act, formal or formal, pay any fee and generally to satisfy any of the obligations of industrial property already acquired on the 31st September, 1947 or after that date in connection with those which if the war had not taken place might have arisen June, 1947.

ARTICLE 3

The renewal of registration of trade marks which have reached the end of their normal term of protection after the 31st September 1947 but before the 30th June, 1948, provided the renewal is effected before the 30th June 1948.

ARTICLE 4

newal is effected before the 30th June 1948.

ARTICLE 5

1. The period between the 3rd September 1939 and the 30th June 1947, shall be treated as if it were a period of three years provided by paragraph 2) of Article 6 bis of the Convention of 1900.

2. However, it is agreed that no industrial design or model, or trade mark which is in force on the 3rd September, 1939, may be protected to any of the periods provided by Article 5 of the Convention after the 1st January 1948.

ARTICLE 6

1. Third parties who, after the 3rd September, 1939 and until the 31st December, 1946, have undertaken in good faith the exploitation of an invention, of a model or of an industrial design or model may continue such exploitation without the conditions prescribed by the domestic legislation.

2. The 3rd September, 1939 and the 1st January, 1948, shall be treated as if they were the 1st January, 1948. A representative or assignee may in respect of an applicant in full possession of the benefit of Article 1 be treated as an exploiter in good faith even if he has not exclusively exploited his invention, provided he can establish that the exploitation was prevented by the war.

ARTICLE 7

The provisions of the present Agreement comprise only a minimum of protection: they do not prevent a claim, in favour of the proprietors of rights in intellectual property, for the application of any more extended prescriptions which may be issued by the domestic legislation of a contracting country. They equally permit the contracting countries to make any other arrangements and non-conflicting agreements with the Government of the contracting countries have concluded or may conclude by and themselves.

ARTICLE 8

The provisions of the present Agreement shall not prejudice the application of the provisions of Agreements or Treaties of Peace concluded or to be concluded between the contracting countries which have been at war with one another.

ARTICLE 9

1. The present Agreement is open to countries members of the Union for the

The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various methods which have been proposed for the determination of the rate of reaction between a radical and a molecule. The most common of these is the method of initial rates, in which the initial concentration of the radical is varied and the initial rate of reaction is measured. This method is simple and direct, but it is subject to a number of errors, particularly those arising from the determination of the initial concentration of the radical.
 A more accurate method is the method of steady-state concentrations, in which the concentration of the radical is maintained at a constant value by the addition of a suitable reagent. This method is more complicated, but it is more accurate and it is less subject to errors. The third method is the method of continuous flow, in which the radical and the molecule are mixed in a flow tube and the rate of reaction is measured by the change in concentration of the radical as it flows through the tube. This method is also simple and direct, but it is subject to errors arising from the determination of the flow rate
 and the concentration of the radical.

The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various factors which influence the rate of reaction between a radical and a molecule. The most important of these are the nature of the radical, the nature of the molecule, the temperature, the pressure, and the presence of other substances. The rate of reaction is generally increased by an increase in temperature and by an increase in pressure. The rate of reaction is also influenced by the nature of the radical and the nature of the molecule.

The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various applications of the study of the rate of reaction between a radical and a molecule. The most important of these are the study of the mechanism of the reaction, the study of the kinetics of the reaction, and the study of the effect of various factors on the rate of reaction.

The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various methods which have been proposed for the determination of the rate of reaction between a radical and a molecule. The most common of these is the method of initial rates, in which the initial concentration of the radical is varied and the initial rate of reaction is measured. This method is simple and direct, but it is subject to a number of errors, particularly those arising from the determination of the initial concentration of the radical.
 A more accurate method is the method of steady-state concentrations,
 in which the concentration of the radical is maintained at a constant value by the addition of a suitable reagent. This method is more complicated, but it is more accurate and it is less subject to errors. The third method is the method of

 subject to errors arising from the determination of the flow rate
 and the concentration of the radical.

It is the nature of the evidence in the Levin case that we will have to take into account.

For the first time, the authors have shown that the β -phase of the $\text{Mg}-\text{Zn}$ system is stable at low temperatures. The β -phase is a new intermetallic compound with the formula Mg_2Zn . The β -phase is a new intermetallic compound with the formula Mg_2Zn .

The following conditions are satisfied:

(i) $\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} p_n = 0$, $\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} q_n = 0$, $\lim_{n \rightarrow \infty} r_n = 0$.

In the matter of a general cleanup over $5 a
hr. Joseph H. Cohen, 1014 B'nai B'rith, 221
Yehoshua Zuckerman, the mayor of Green of Zecha ren, B'nai of Tel Aviv, demand.

Let α and β be two elements of Z .
 Then $\alpha + \beta$ is represented by M .
 The M is the same as the M of α and β .

Let me inform you also that the above case has been assigned to the District Court at Tel Aviv for an appeal against the former judgment since the person and property of Simha Joseph Benyamini, Rut Rubina Esther Yehor Ze'evan owner of the lot of Ze'evan Barak, is in issue.

Any person who is so awarded will be free or who may wish to do so for a fee of $10.
